I. Introduction

The Programme for Workers' Activities of the International Training Centre of the ILO (ACTRAV-Turin) is an integral part of the Bureau for Workers' Activities of the International Labour Organization.

On its part, the Bureau for Workers' Activities (ACTRAV) is the main link between the International Labour Office and the world of work through one of its constituents: workers' organizations.

ACTRAV ensures that the concerns and interests of workers' organizations are taken into consideration in the policy development and activities of the International Labour Office, both at headquarters and in the Field. It supports workers' organizations in the defence and promotion of workers' rights, works in close coordination with, and assists the Secretariat of the Workers' Group of the ILO Governing Body.

The Programme for Workers' Activities (ACTRAV Turin) has the specific task of implementing training activities (at the Turin Centre, in the field, and through distance learning and online education) to support trade unions in strengthening their expertise and education capacity in current issues that affect workers and are strategic for the labour movement.

During the period under review, the ACTRAV-Turin programme, like other ITCILO technical programmes, has been making adjustments as it continues to offer a unique service that is relevant to workers' organizations during a period of significant and profound changes to the world of work and the global environment at large.

Given the current and future challenges and opportunities, the ACTRAV Turin Programme has taken careful consideration to reflect on three independent aspects: people, technology, and processes.

People refer to human resources and digital competencies within the union (internal, organizational) and target the public (potential members) or learners (external).

People also entail relationships; within the unions, with the wider labour movement and like-minded partners and progressive organizations, cultivating trust and collective actions, and learning through experience and knowledge sharing.

Technology includes the choice of software and platforms to be used. It entails important considerations such as learners' access, security, and privacy issues including general data protection, confidentiality, etc.

On processes, there are two main things that we are considering: (i) the life cycle of the online education activity, design and development, production, delivery, and evaluation; and (ii) the systems, including learning management systems, content management, content and record management, project coordination, and collaboration, as well as post-training impact analysis.

Our perspective is that we would want to see ACTRAV Turin Programme in five years be the Global Pinnacle of Workers' Education. We want participants to come to our courses and feel as if they have arrived at the "Mecca of Labour Education."

We want ACTRAV Turin to be a reference point for curriculum development, methodological approaches, and coherent material content on workers' education.

This is possible in five years because we have the resources (human, financial, technological) to achieve it.

HIGHLIGHTS OF THE WORKERS' ACTIVITIES PROGRAMME
2022

II. Highlights of the Workers' Activities Programme 2022

OUR VISION

A global pinnacle of workers' education and training aimed at building and strengthening the capacities of workers' organizations to achieve social justice, decent work, and sustainable, inclusive, and resilient development for all.

OUR MISSION

A reference point for curriculum development, methodological approaches, and coherent material content on workers' education and training on which trade unions build their capacities and influence in the ever-changing world of work.

OUR GOALS

1. Participants:

- Emphasis on trade union educators and activists and trained trainers. Gender parity, geographical diversity, and language considerations. Possible tracer study, both on individual development and also institutional impact.
- Continued special focus on youth, with a particular orientation to an online education mentality.
- Potential resource persons and experts on trade union education.
- ACTRAV Turin Alumni.

2. Methodological approaches to workers' education:

- Learner-centered: accessibility, inclusivity, affordability, and user-friendliness.
- Blended approaches: face-to-face and online education.
- New pedagogical approaches: new approaches to education and integration of technology ('self-directed learning' where participants take the initiative in diagnosing their needs, formulating learning goals, learning strategies and outcomes).
- Digital learning.
- Support capacity development on workers' education.
- Trainers need to upgrade their pedagogical skills and teaching techniques.

3. Learning approaches

- Adapt to rapid technological changes: develop human resources and digital competencies within the unions (and our team).
- Develop trainers' capacities to influence inclusive and sustainable growth of trade unions as actors of change.
- Collective and interactive education.
- Emphasis on quality, and not just quantity.
- Integrate lifelong learning opportunities for workers' education.
- Language is also key in delivering quality education.

4. Technical emphasis

- Advancing social justice and promoting decent work.
  - In line with the established Strategic Plan and the Programme and Budget of the Centre.
  - Offer courses that go beyond the usual topics that are offered by other training institutions within the labour movement.
  - Prepare and train members to play an active role in union activities and processes: education must be seen as one of the core services to trade union membership.
  - Social purpose to promote and develop the union presence and purposes to advance the collective union ideology.
  - Collaboration between trade union labour support institutions and universities that exposes trade union ideals to the broader society.
